About the Book

Interviews From The 11 Hour Radio Documentary is a must-read for anyone concerned about the environment. The book features interviews with leading environmentalists, scientists, and policymakers, who discuss the challenges facing our planet and offer solutions for a sustainable future.

The book is divided into four parts:

- 1. The State of the Planet
- 2. The Causes of Environmental Problems
- 3. The Solutions to Environmental Problems
- 4. The Future of Environmentalism

In the first part of the book, the authors discuss the state of the planet and the challenges facing it. They cover topics such as climate change, biodiversity loss, and pollution.

In the second part of the book, the authors explore the causes of environmental problems. They discuss the role of human activities, such as burning fossil fuels and deforestation, in causing environmental degradation.

In the third part of the book, the authors offer solutions to environmental problems. They discuss topics such as renewable energy, sustainable agriculture, and population stabilization.

In the fourth part of the book, the authors discuss the future of environmentalism. They discuss the need for a new environmental ethic and the importance of citizen engagement in environmental decision-making.
